Personal.

Major Carpenter and Captain Woodruff returned to this city on Sunday last, from Creek last Saturday, the proceedings of which have not yet reached us.

A Strawberry Festival

For the benefit of the Memorial Associaciation will be given at the store of Geo. M. White, on Gay street, next door to Dr. Hunter's drug store, on Monday and Tues-day evenings, May 26th and 27th. All who wish to contribute to this entertainment will please send their contributions to the store on Monday, May 26th.

Decoration Day.

All persons in this city are very respectfully requested to close their business houses from 4 to 6 o'clock this evening for the purpose of allowing those employed an opportunity to attend the decoration of the grounds of the Confederate dead in Bethel

Cemetery.
Mrs. Jos. R. MITCHEL, Pres't. Knoxville, May 20, 1873.

Before the Recorder.

Fred. Heiskell appeared before the Recorder yesterday, charged with being intoxicated. He was fined $5 and cost, and not having any loose change about his old clothes, he was employed by the corporation to work on the street at $1 per dayless his board.

Some Suggestions.

It has been suggested that instead of making an exception of certain wards as to the operations of the hog law, an exception be made of the eight wards as to the new assessment law.

Another suggestion is, that Ochs be sent to the pest house for ninety days, and that his blanks be sent with him. Ochs is innocent and ordinarily our people like to see him but not on assessment business.

Decoration.

The ceremony of decorating the graves of the Confederate dead will take place at Bethel Cemetery this evening at 4 o'clock. An address suited to the occasion will be delivered by D. D. Anderson, Esq. Those who are willing to donate flowers for the occasion, can send to Mrs. Shepard, Main street; Mrs. Sneed, Cumberland street; Mrs. Mitchell, Church street; Miss R. O'Conner, Elm street; Mrs. W. Bearden, Clinch street, or Mrs. Kennedy, East Knoxville, this morning.

WATER WORKS.

Meeting of the Committee-Proliminary Survey Ordered.

Yesterday afternoon, a meeting of the special committee of the City Council, appointed at a recent meeting, to take into consideration the practicability of constructing water works, took place at the office of Major E. C. Camp, when the matter was discussed, and after a free interchange of ideas, preliminary action resolv-

Major Carpenter having just returned from a trip west reported that he had examined the water works at Louisville, Ky .. and submitted a proposition from Dennis Long & Co., of that city to make the necessary surveys and estimates as the cost of works. He had also formed the acquaintance of T. R. Scowden & Son, of Cincinnati, and Joseph Flannary, of Philadelphia, hydraulic engineers, the latter of whom was at Chattanooga at present, and represented a heavy firm.

The last named gentleman had made a proposition to the Mayor and himself to come here and make the necessary surveys and estimates as to the cost of the proposed works, including the laying of pipes and everything complete, for the sum of two hundred dollars. This offer involving the least outlay of money, the committee telegraphed Mr. Flannary that his proposition was accepted and he will arrive here to-

The committee have acted in this matter with zeal tempered with caution and have been actuated by a desire to do their whole duty and faithfully guard the interests of the tax-payers.

Boat Sunk.

Yesterday while letting down a heavy rock at the Government quary, into J. M. Jones' boat, with a derrick, the rope broke, letting down the rock, which weighed about 27,000 pounds, with such force that it had no idea of stopping short of the bottom of the river, some thirty feet deep. The boat and rock are both a total loss. This makes the second boat that John Jones has lost in that manner.

windows. The woman then got up and said to her daughter that she would go after the police, and rushed out of doors. The men ran away from the window, and out of the gate. She returned to her room, and remained there quietly, expecting further demonstrations, which were not long in being developed. The next movement of the young men, she, says seemed to be to tear down the gate, when she again appeared on the scene, and as the boys stepped back from the gate, she claims that she recognized them, and told them that they need not run as she knew them and would make them pay for this night's work. It was then that she was greeted with several rocks, one of which struck her in the forehead, breaking the bridge of her nose, and her skull, causing a serious if not fatal wound. While in the place at Spiro's hall on Friday evening act of falling, she says several shots were next, promises to be a very pleasant occa- fired at her and after she fell she received several kicks in the side, when the party left in double-quick. Dr. M. L. Rogers was called in and dressed the wound, but we have not learned his opinion as to the probability of her recovering. Yesterday, in accordance with information given by the woman, a warrant was issued by Esquire Yardly for the arrest of the boy. The police will keep a lookout for him.

Ebaugh and Robt, Leftwitch, all of whom were arrested in the fore part of the day and gave bond for their appearance at place of business now, accommodating o'clock in the evening, with the exception of Robert Leftwitch, who could not be found until late in the evening, when he came and gave himself up to the officer of the law while the trial of one of the party was in progress. Messrs. Hightower and Wilds stood an examinatian before Esquire Yardley at the Rev. C. W. Charlton returned yesterday from a trip among the farmers of Cocke them, they were discharged. The day becourt house yesterday evening, and the evcounty. He reports a large meeting at Big ing pretty well consumed, the remainder of the party were bound over until this evening at 3 o'clock, when the trial will be continued, and further facts may be developed. In the mean time we forbear comment.

The Platform Scale.

In a recent exploration of the passages of one of the Egyptian pyramids a granite ball was found, about two and a half inches in diameter, which undoubtedly was a poise used with the only weighing-machine known to the earlier ancients, the even balance. Similar weights exhumed on the sites of Nineveh and Troy, attest the primitive use of the balance in those cities. What is remarkable is that the even balance, with its modification the steelyard, constituted the only device for ordinary weighing until within comparatively a few years. In fact until Fairbanks gave us the platform scale, there was no contrivance that met the public demand for a convenient, durable, accurate weighing-machine, one capable of receiving great weights and of disclosing their avoirdupois without delay or labor, capable also of an indefinite number of modifications to adapt it to any required use; simple of construction and not liable to disarrange-

The platform scale as originally devised and successfully improved, seems in a special manner to have come forward at just the right time. Steam had been applied to the moving of machinery and the propulsion of vehicles. Production and transportation both were taking on a dispatch and bulk previously unknown. Electricity was soon to enter as a factor into the transmission of intelligence and the acceleration of business. Commodities were assuming larger values correspondent to higher elaboration. Agriculture was beginning to yield a vast surplus to swell the currents of trade. A scale was needed to take on cattle by the drove, grain by the thousands of bushels per hour, railway trains with unbroken bulk, and even parges and propellers with their cargoes; to weigh packages of whatever form and character with instant promptitude and unfailing accuracy. It is certainly only just to say that the merit of producing such a scale, satisfactory in all particulars, belongs to this nation and the venerable inventor, Thaddeus Fairbanks, whose name has now become so closely identified with the weighing of the world.

The wide diffusion of the Fairbanks Platform Scale is a necessary incident and a demonstration of their excellence. The world has had time in the forty-three years of its use to discover the merit and demerit of this machine in full. Having taken hundreds of thousands before, it last year took 46,000 scales additional. Of these 6,000 were on foreign standards. This balance is to be added to the short list of American manufactures that find large market abroad, notwithstanding the lower cost of labor and materials enjoyed by foreign makers. The world is not slow to discover what it is for its interest to buy.

A Bloody, Barbarous Code.

Devotees at the bloody shrine of the Mo-loch of dueling should be pleased with the sacrifice offered up at Richmond, Virginia. Two young men of acknowledged social position met on the "field of honor" to shoot each other to the death because of a misunderstanding about—nothing. Both were wounded; one, Mr. John B. Mordecai, has since died, and the other, unfortunately for himself, will recover from his physical injuries, to brood throughout a life-time over the sad memories of a tragedy performed by him in obedience to the behests of a bloody, barbarous code; perhaps to sink into the grave after a life rendered aimless and miserable, by the event which forced him to send his late friend unprepared before his Maker.—Memphis Avalanche.
